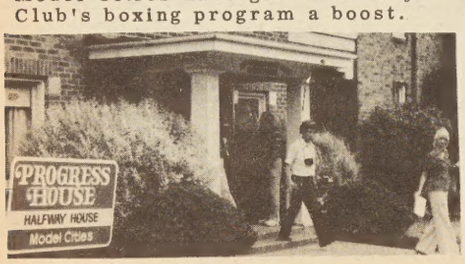
Teachers Tour Model Neighborhood

OLYMPIC Gold Medal winner Sugar Ray Seales tells a group of teacheers that the improvements made by Model Cities have given the Boys Club's boxing program a boost.



TEACHERS toured Progress House during a recent tour of the Model Neighborhood.

A bus load of teachers toured the Model Neighborhood this month taking a look at some of the accomplishments of Model Cities and Urban Renewal.

After a walk through the Broadway Plaza, the teachers went to the Downtown Boys Club to see the improvements Model Cities has made to the neighborhood recreational facility. The up stairs was gutted and transformed into a boxing area with an office and showers. Ray Seales, Olympic gold medal winner, told the teachers that the new facilities have given the boxing program a real boost.

Fletcher Jenkins, club director, showed the teachers the new office and recreation rooms as well as the new dressing rooms for swimming. The club now has facilities for girls.

The group then went on a drive through the Neighborhood Development Program area. The teachers were shown homes which have been rehabilitated and the mini-park which is being developed.

Next the group went to the Family Clinic where Director Aaron Miller showed them the facilities and explained the medical referral system used by the clinic. The clinic maintains a list of about 70 doctors who will see low-income patients at no fee or partial fee on a continuing basis.

After leaving the clinic, the teachers drove by the Malcolm X Center, Ferry Park, and the Hilltop Day Care Center which have been improved with Model Cities funds.

Before completing the tour, the group went to the Progress Halfway House where Barbara Fisher explained that most men return to prison because they cannot get settled in the community after they come out of prison. She told the group that the Progress House gives the men a place to live while they get themselves set up in the community. The teachers toured the home and saw the expansion area which will allow the halfway house to keep more than 20 men at one time.

The teachers were from the Community Resources Workshop which is a yearly program to help familiarize teachers with their community. Many of the teachers commented that they were impressed with the accomplishments of Model Cities.

People Pay Tribute to Martin Luther King at Expo '74

SPOKANE---More than 500 persons paid tribute to the late Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. in memorial services held in the Afro-American Pavilion at the Expo '74 World's Fair.

Pavilion Director Frank A. Russell, president of the Pan-African Foundation of Tacoma, Wash., Expo '74 President King F. Cole, General Manager Peter L. Spurney and U.S. Commissioner General Claude Bekins, were among the dignitaries who attended the ceremonies.

"It is only fitting that a memorial be held here," Russell said. "This is the first World's Fair that has made significant note of the contributions of black people in the United States.

"We note Mrs. King's contributions, not only because of her famous son, but also because she was an outstanding leader of the black community in her own right."

Russell began the service with a eulogy to Mrs. King. A selection of Mrs. King's favorite hyms from a record album by Mahalia Jackson followed. Wanda Dumas, a pavilion guide from Spokane, then sang "The Broken Vessel", another favorite of hers.

The stirring "I Have A Dream" speech of her son was also played at the service and throughout the day.

Visitors to the pavilion during the day of the service signed a special guest book. People from all parts of the country and a number of foreign nations who were visiting Expo signed, according to Russell. The book will be sent to the King family in Atlanta, Georgia.

SPOKANE---Sadness is reflected in the faces of visitors to the Expo '74 World's Fair who attended memorial services for Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. in the Afro-American Pavilion. Mrs. King's son is prominently featured in an exhibit of famous black Americans in the pavilion, the first major exhibit of its type at any world's fair. More than five hundred persons attended the service.

City Now Accepting Employment Applications

The City of Tacoma will be accepting applications from the general public for employment for positions to be filled under the City's Public Service Employment and Public Employment Programs starting Monday, July 22. All interested Tacoma City residents may apply for these positions at 531, County-City Building, between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Positions to be filled will be with departments of the City, local schools, local state government agencies, and other local community organizations. Applicants must be unemployed for at least 30 days prior to application to be eligible. Applicants must be City of Tacoma residents.

A list of the jobs to be filled can be found at the local Washington State Employment Service and at other community organizations.

Veterans who served in the Armed Forces in Indochina or Korea or adjacent waters after August 5, 1964, will have the opportunity to apply for these positions beginning Thursday, July 18. The job classifications will be available at the Washington State Employment Service, 1313 Tacoma Avenue, South, on the morning of the 18th. Veterans taking advantage of this special application date must be referred to the City from the State Employment Service. Time spent on active duty in the Armed Forces will not count as employjent for purposes of program eligibility.

ACCORDING TO TIME MAGAZINE, a French advertising executive has placed 1,411 lonely old people in families that wanted a grandparent. All this within the last year. All but six of the elderly people were women. Many families, it seems, welcome a grandmother to help with the children. Most of the placements were temporary—for a summer or vacation season—but some have been so satisfactory to both sides they've become permanent.

Two Homes Approved for Rehab

The Municipal Authority approved two more homes for rehabilitation this month bringing the total number of homes approved for rehabilitation or maintenance to 21.

The Municipal Authority (MA) board has awarded 12 rehabilitation grants for a total of $34,654.11 and nine maintenance grants for a total of $4,145.89.

The Municipal Authority is still working on the problem of making loans. The board requested a special meeting later in the month to talk with a loan applicant to determine if the board can help the family make a Title I loan. Results of the meeting may provide some guidelines for the remaining loan applicants.

In related matters, the Housing Development Program has been taken over by the Model Cities administrative staff to decrease the costs of the program.

Anyone interested in making home improvements can still call 593-4660 to make an application. The application will be processed by the Model Cities staff and work will continue on all projects in progress.

The only changes anticipated now are the elimination of maintenance jobs by the HDP and emergency maintenance. The MA decided to put maintenance jobs out to bid to private contractors like the rehabilitation jobs. So the only service which has been eliminated from the program is the emergency maintenance.

Any questions about the housing program should be directed to the Model Cities housing component, 622 Tacoma Ave., Tacoma, Wn. 98405 or telephone 593-4660.

The Housing Development Program Office at the 1301 S. K service center has been closed, so all matters relating to housing should come to Model Cities main office.

Fore! Congratulations are in store for Giles who last weekend competed in the Fort Lewis Club Championship and walked away with first prize in the second division. Giles has been steadily getting his game down in the middle 80's which is the desire of most weekend golfers. He is getting ready for our club championship during the Labor Day weekend. Herb is back but he didn't have much to say about the golf across the mountain. Herb had to take off again for Carolina due to illness in his family which we deeply regret to hear. Hats off to our tournament committee. They have been doing a beautiful job lining up places to play in the weekend and the reward has been that at least three foursomes have been meeting tee times every Saturday.

Last Saturday the play was at Meadow Park but some of the scores indicate some minds were still asleep (smile). Get this! The lowest score of the day was 80 shot by Cooper. Woody had one of his better putting rounds and finished with an 83. Long ball hitting Snapp was doing just that "Snapp" hooking and finished with an 86. Yours truly paid off in the club house after hitting the little ball 88 times. The second flihgt had some good scores to turn in. Douglas who can hit ti a mile, shot 93. Smith had a nice 106, and Stark, who is bringing his score down, had 108. Third flight scores were Jenkins 110, Richardson 113, and Carrington 116. The trophy kitty is building but in order to win a trophy you must play so I'll look for you on the first tee this weekend.
P.S. Has anyone seen Chris Washington?
Mr. D.

So Who Needs the NFL?

The football season is two weeks old as you read this--the tenth game of the year happens tonight when the Portland "Storm" takes on the Memphis Grizzlies in the second televised game in World Football League history. (Channel 11 at 8 pm tonight, by the way.)

Our question after witnessing the first round of WFL action is: so who needs the NFL? Let them stay on strike forever (or until Seattle joins the league in 1976, whichever comes sooner).

Now, of course, we didn't see all five games last week; they took place all over the country, while we were stuck here in little old Seattle. But through the magic of television (and the courtest of channel 11) we did see the Jacksonville-New York game last Thursday.

We were impressed--sort of. It was somewhat like watching a couple of good college teams at work. The players were excited, ready and willing--but somehow the ability seemed a tad below what it could have been. Granted, there was only one penalty in the entire first half--but there was also only one score, an 85-yard punt return for Jacksonville. This in a league which is supposed to place the highest value on a wide-open offense.

Actually, what the situation in that Jacosonville-New York game boiled down to was an irresistable force against an immovable object--New York's "irresistable" offense against the "immovable" Jacksonville defense. That may sound a little overstated, but that's literally what the game was: New York, with a fairly good offense, marching the ball time and again down the field, only to be stopped time and again by the Jacksonville defense. The New York defense wasn't all that hot--but the Jacksonville offense was worse. How either team won was sheer bounce-of-the-ball luck. (Jacksonville won 14-7, by the way.)

Merle Harmon, who is the network announcer for the WFL broadcasts, was apologising for the low-scoring game almost continuously by saying things like, "The defense is always ahead of the offense in the early part of the season." Indeed it is; of the ten WFL teams, only one had a big scoring night last week (if you can cal 33 points a big night).

But somehow, it seems to us that it isn't the early part of the season that's at fault; the fact is, defense is easier to play than offense, and so most WFL teams have concentrated on building defensive units, taking advantage of the players that they have, and hoping their offenses will be good enough to last this year in whatever shape they happen to be in. Next year, when the NFL league-jumpers start to trickle into the WFL camps the offense will begin to take shape. But for now, defense is the name of the game.

This strategy just might work--if the NFL folks remain on strike. If the American sports fams have nothing to compare WFL football to, they probably won't notice the difference between it and its older NFL brother. The WFL just could survive its freshman year and become a real league.

Q--I would like information about being covered by both Medicare and Champus. I am 55 years old, drawing Army retired pay and Social Security disability benefits. I became eligible for Medicare under the new law last year. Do both Champus and Medicare pay hospital and doctor bills?

A--Those retirees from military service because of a disability may also meet the Social Security Administration's standards of disability. If so, after 24 months of receiving disability benefits from Social Security, the retiree becomes eligible to participate in the Medicare program even though under age 65. In this case, however, the retiree retains eligiblity for Champus care until age 65. He is permitted to use either or both of the programs to his best advantage, except that double payment for the same service is barred.

Q--If a veteran is late in making his GI Bill loan payment, can he be charged a penalty?

A--VA has a policy whereby a late charge, not to exceed four percent of the monthly installment, may be levied when payment of any installment is made more than 15 days after the days after the due date. The loan contract should spell out that policy.

Fantastic Black Facts

by Rose Marie Johnson

Until recently, women were a rarity in the upper ranks of government service. However, what was almost taboo some years ago is now accepted. President John F. Kennedy, in 1961, set up a Commission on the Status of Women, headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. The Commission recommended that barriers against the employment of women be eliminated. These, Mrs. Roosevelt felt, resulted only in waste, injustice and frustration.

Since that time, the federal government has appointed many women to key positions. One of these women is Charlotte Moton Habbard, who became Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs in May 1964. In this position, Mrs. Hubbard holds the highest permanent federal post ever held by a Black women.

Born in Hampton, Virginia, attended Tuskegee Institute receiving a junior College certificate in home economics. She received a B.S. in education and physical education at Boston University. She later did post graduate work there and at Bennington College in Vermont. For a time an instructor of physical education at Hampton and later associate professor. She left to join government service.

Mrs. Hubbard has served as Community Relations Advisor - National headquarters, Girl Scouts in New York; director of field relations at Tuskegee Institute, and National Representative of the Congress of Industrial Organizations' (CIO) Political Action Committee. In 1953, Mrs. Hubbard made history when she became community services director of WTOP tv in Washington, D.C., the first black to be appointed to a prominent position with a television station in the District of Columbia. Mrs. Hubbard joined the Bureau of Public Affairs in 1963. She had the responsibility of organizing community meetings on foreign policy. Charlotte Hubbard is the wife of Maceo Hubbard, an attorney with the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., and the daughter of the late Robert R. Moton, second president of Tuskegee Institute.

THE FACTS—COMMUNITY NEWS

Ludell Etheridge Appointed Residential Appraiser

Ken Johnston, Pierce County Assessor announced that Mrs. Ludell Ethridge has been appointed a Residential Appraiser in the Pierce County Assessor's Office.

Johnston said, "It is our belief that Ludell Ethridge is the first black woman Residential Appraiser in the State of Washington and maybe the Northwest in any Assessor's Office."

Mrs. Ethridge began her employment in the Pierce County Assessor's Office in April of 1971. She has handled various clerical assignments with her last assignment being the Supervisor of the Public Contact in the Administration Department. She received her State Residential Certification as an Appraiser from the State Department of Personnel, which is a test sponsored by the State Department of Revenue.

"After working with the property owners at the counter for over 2 1/2 years, Mrs. Ethridge is well informed on the problems of the property tax and has an excellent understanding of the property tax system. She is now being advanced to the position of Residential Appraiser because of her knowledge and desire to progress in our operation," Johnston continued.

Mrs. Ethridge was born and raised in Texas. She has been a resident of Tacoma since 1960. She attended L. H. Bates Vocational Technical Institute where she spent two years studying office administration. She recieved her high school diploma from the Olympic Vocational Technical Institute and attended Tacoma Community College nights studying business law and is planning to continue her education in night courses offered by the college.

Mrs. Ethridge is 31 years of age, divorced with a seven year old daughter. She will be visiting her family in Texas on her vacation this year and hopes to pick up some antique furniture to pursue her hobby of collecting old furniture.

"Ludell has shown outstanding aptitude and ambition during her employment in the Pierce County Assessor's Office. It has been our policy to promote our employees into appraising work who have shown they have the desire and interest to advance their opportunities. We have a minority employment percentage of 15.1% in the office of Assessor and have been very pleased with the training program that has been developed," Johnston stated.

"In the Pierce County Assessor's Office, since 1971, 35 women have been certified by the State of Washington as Appraisers and two women have been certified as Industrial Appraisers which is the highest certification possible. Many women are holding supervisory positions and Appraiser positions traditionally held by men in the past."

"We have found that minority hiring has worked well in our office and with the outstanding training program we have developed in the appraisal field, many minorities are being given this opportunity to advance for the first time in the technical area of appraising property," concluded Johnston.

College campuses today are really crowded. If a student wants to be alone, he has to go to class.

THE FACTS—ENTERTAINMENT

Boogie Down Tacoma

by Spencer L. Sears

The Club gamut the past weekend was a monster. Everyone, everywhere had a bumping good time. That includes the NCO Clubs at Ft. Lewis and McChord, the Esquire, and the ever-jumping Caballeros. Heaven must be like that! For those of you who went to one, any, or all of the clubs can testify to that.

"The Sophisticated Five" is sponsoring an annual party for musicians and their guests on August 4, 1974 at the Single Tree Ranch. To get the low-down on this affair, contact Misses Billie Jones and Lady Dyanne Henderson at Henderson's Beauty Salon.

"Jonah's Whale" 'skied up' 16 July for Bellingham with an ultimate destination for the Expo '74, Spokane.

For six more solid, soul months "Tee McGee and the Rapid Pulsations" will be at the Club Caballeros three weekends a month. A different band will provide the entertainment on the fourth weekend. This gives the "Four-Foot Giant" a breather.

The Esquire is featuring "Funk Incorporated", along with "Magnum" this weekend. You have to be there to partake in this monstrous set. "Magnum" will also appear this weekend at McChord NCO. If you miss them at the Esquire, pick up on them at McChord.

Sunny California will be the stumping ground for "Ready Made Family" starting in August. They will show the Californians the Pacific Northwest also has 'soul control'.

We will definitely find out the dates and places for gospel entertainment, and the word shall be heard. The groups providing the gospel inspiration will be a blessing in itself.

The facts and figures have been compiled, keep reading THE FACTS and stay informed.

Arts and Crafts Festival at Purdy

The first Arts and Crafts Festival at Purdy Treatment Center will be held Saturday, July 20, 1974. The public is invited to attend from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Residents have been busy putting the finishing touches on their creations. Unusual candles, macrame, crochet, ethnic jewelry, pottery, paintings, panda bears, decoupage, and doll clothes are among the many attractive items which may be purchased.

Special entertainment will be provided by the Tacoma Totemaires Barbershop Chorus. Ethnic dancing and fashion modeling by the "Hollywood Swingers" and the Black Culture Workshop will also be featured.

Actively participating in preparation for this event are several representatives of the Washington State Jaycee Auxilliaries. This group helped spark the art festival idea during a monthly visit to Purdy. Staff, sponsors, and several community groups have assisted in gathering the necessary supplies.

Proceeds from the sales will benefit the women at the Center. Some resident groups plan to pool their profits for future worthwhile projects.

Reserves Assist With School Physicals

School and sports physical examinations will be given to all dependent children seven years of age and older at the Madigan Army Medical Center Annex, according to Madigan's chief, Department of Clinics.

Colonel William McIlroy stated that "with the assistance of reserve physicians, we have the capability to provide this service at the Annex (Bldg. 4290, Rm. 107) on July 30 and 31 and August 1 and 2. Appointments are necessary," the colonel said, "and should be made no later than July 26 through the Central Appointment Desk, telephone 967-6991."

Assisting the Department of Clinics and Community Health Care Services with the physicals are reserve personnel of Seattle's 50th General Hospital who will be spending two weeks reserve training at the Center during that period.

Children who have hospital cards should bring them when reporting for the physicals; however, school or sports physical forms are not required Center officials report.

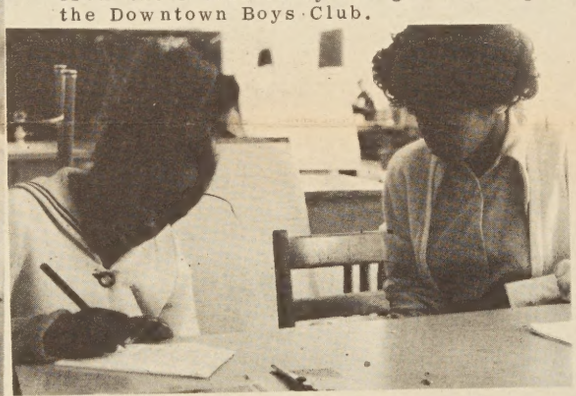
Kids Enjoying TACTful Summer

PROJECT Director Fred Gatewood helps a TACT student learn how to swim.

TACT students enjoy an afternoon break from their studies by doing swimming at the Downtown Boys Club.

SEVERAL tutors and pupils work together learning a variety of reading and math skills.



JACQUI GLOVER helps Cheryl Myers with a writing exercise during a session of the TACT summer program.

Going to school may not sound like a fun way to spend the summer, but the kids in the Tacoma Area Child Tutoring (TACT) program don't seem to mind it a bit.

Learning, in the TACT summer program, is as much fun as it is work anyway. In the morning the pupils work on reading and math skills. In the afternoon, everyone gets together for activities all the way from arts and crafts to swimming.

Using a variety of game-like teaching tools, the tutors are helping their students learn reading and math. The classes, held at McCarver Elementary School, are busy with activity in the morning. Every child has a tutor, and the two work together in the open space classroom with several others around doing similar activities.

During the school year, the TACT program meets after school using volunteer tutors from local schools. For the summer, TACT has taken Neighborhood Youth Corps students, given them training in tutoring techniques, and is using them to tutor elementary school children who need special help with reading and math.

So learning doesn't have to be dull--if you use a little TACT.

GETTING STARTED is often the hardest part of a job. A person needs all his energy just for the starting. We're like cars—only a small percentage of an engine's power is necessary to run a car, but all its power may be necessary to start it.

Landlords Have Responsibilities

(Note: This is the third article in a series on landlord-tenant rights and responsibilities. All of the information in these articles is taken from the Model Cities "Landlord-Tenant Handbook". For a copy of the handbook, call Don Hines at 593-4660. For landlord-tenant problems, call Dick Mason at 593-4660).

The basic responsibility of the landlord is to abide by any codes or laws applicable to housing, public safety, or any other area involved in apartment operation.

The landlord must maintain the structure so it will hold normal loads. Any facilities which are shared by several tenants must be kept clean, sanitary, and safe by the landlord.

Any fires outside of the building require a permit. Any open fires must be 50 feet from all buildings and fires in approved burners with closed tops must be at least 15 feet from all buildings. The landlord must protect the apartment from infestation of pests and rodents.

The landlord is expected to keep the premises in good condition, not including normal wear and tear, as stated in the rental agreement. Adequate locks and keys must be furnished to the tenant. The landlord must maintain all electrical, plumbing, and heating as well as appliances supplied by him, in reasonably good working order.

The dwelling should be reasonably weather tight. Except for single-family residences, the landlord must provide for proper waste disposal.

The landlord must provide heat, and hot and cold running water.

The landlord must put his name and address on the rental agreement or have it posted on the residence. Any changes in ownership or address must be made known to the tenants by certified mail or updated posting. If the landlord lives outside the state, an agent must be designated to manage the property.

In next month's issue of the Model Cities News, this column will explain the proper method for reporting needed repairs to a landlord and what action a tenant can take if the repairs are not made.

SUPERVISORS are paid to deal with adversity, not just report it.

Community Development Making Progress

Bills for community development revenue sharing have been passed by the House and Senate, and a conference committee is expected to resolve differences in the two versions this month.

Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist told the Model Cities Executive Board on Thursday that legislation will be ready by the end of the year unless something unforeseen happens. Mr. Palmquist was reporting on a recent conference of the Model Cities Community Development Directors Association in San Diego. The funds would provide additional money for programs such as Urban Renewal, Model Cities, Neighborhood Facilities, Open Space Land, Basic Water and Sewer Facilities, Public Works Planning Advances, Public Facilities Loans, Advance Land Acquisition, and Section 312 Rehabilitation Loans.

The new funds would be sent to Tacoma in one lump sum then the city would decide how much to spend in the various programs.

The new legislation could provide continuation of Model Cities beyond the current termination date of Dec. 31, 1974. Model Cities projects, could be expanded citywide or kept in the Model Neighborhood, which ever the city decides. City staff have proposed a new city department of community development which would administer the new funds and would combine the Model Cities and Urban Renewal Departments.

The community development bills passed by the House and Senate have four basic differences.

The House version provides for three years funding at a slightly lower budget than the Senate version which provides for only two years funding.

The Senate version has more restrictions on how the money can be spent, giving the cities less flexibility in using the money. In the Senate version, 80 per cent of the funds must be spent in low-income areas.

The House version requires an application covering six years with review every three years while the Senate version covers four years with review every two years. The House application is less complicated than the Senate proposal.

The House version also allows for simpler environmental impact statements.

David Meeker, assistant secretary of community development and planning for HUD, told the Model Cities directors that cities should plan housing strategies now to prepare for the new legislation. The comments were made at a conference in San Diego recently.

DR. ABRAHAM WOLFSON, a retired, 92-year-old dentist, has solved his personal energy problem by not talking four days a week. "We lose more energy through the mouth than anywhere else," he says. "I don't have energy or time to waste, so I keep quiet."

Board Rejects Ellis' Resignation

The Model Cities Executive Board voted last week not to accept the resignation of its chairman, Junior N.R. Ellis.

Mr. Ellis submitted his resignation at the previous board meeting held June 27. The meeting was adjourned before any action could be taken on the resignation.

In a letter to Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist, Mr. Ellis said he had resigned because of lack of support for his application as executive director of the Region Ten Citizens Council. He said that the lack of sup port for his application as executive director of the Region Ten Citizens Council. He said that the lack of support seemed to be a vote of no confidence on the part of the citizens.

In a unanimous vote to retain Mr. Ellis as chairman, the board indicated its support of the chairman and his efforts as chairman for the past year and a half.

In other action, the board voted to send four of its members to the board meeting of the National Citizens Participation Council in Denver on July 20-21. The two official delegates from Tacoma's Model Cities board will be Ruth Daniels and Beulah Rankin. Mrs. Daniels is the national secretary of the citizens group. Vice-chairman James Nash and Anne Carter were also selected to attend the meeting.

I CAN APPRECIATE why the young people went to jeans and long hair. They wanted to be different.

I feel the same way about white shirts. When colored shirts became the fashion and white shirts disappeared a few years ago, I kept on wearing the whites. It got to the point where I'd be the only man in a whole roomful with a white shirt on.

Now I hear white shirts are coming back. Pretty soon everybody will be wearing them. Shucks! For a while I felt like a man of distinction.
